Benefits that the company will receive from the capital increase/allocation of additional shares

Such capital increase will make the Company be prepared and have financial flexibility for the company's and subsidiaries' operations. The funds obtained from the issuance and offering of additional common shares to existing shareholders in proportion to their respective shareholdings can be used to operate within the framework for using the above funds in a timely manner which will be beneficial to the Company's business operations.

Benefits that shareholders will receive from the capital increase/allocation of additional shares

Dividend Policy

The Company has a policy to pay dividends at a rate of not less than 40 percent of net profits after deducting corporate income tax and allocation of legal reserves by considering the Company's consolidated financial statements. The Company may consider changing the dividend rate to be less than the rate specified above or refrain from paying dividends taking into account economic conditions, operating results, financial status, liquidity, and the need for use as working capital for business management and business expansion are taken into consideration.

Subscribers of newly issued ordinary shares will have the right to receive dividends paid from operations starting when the subscriber is registered as a shareholder of the Company.

Other details that are necessary for shareholders to use in deciding to approve the capital increase/allocation of additional shares

Shareholders may be affected by exercising their rights to subscribe for additional common shares allotted to existing shareholders in proportion to their shareholding as follows:

Reduction of shareholding proportion ( Control Dilution )

If any existing shareholders do not exercise their rights to subscribe for additional ordinary shares allocated to existing shareholders in proportion to their shareholding according to their rights and other existing shareholders exercise their rights to subscribe for new ordinary shares according to their rights or in excess of their rights until all shares have been subscribed. This will cause the shareholding proportion of existing shareholders to decrease calculated from the following formula:

$$\begin{aligned}
 \text{Control Dilution} &= \text{Number of additional common shares offered for sale} / (\text{Total paid-up} \\
 &\quad \text{shares} + \text{Number of additional common shares offered for sale}) \\
 &= \frac{6,043,585,180}{(604,358,518 + 6,043,585,180)} \\
 &= 90.91 \text{ percent}
 \end{aligned}$$

Price Dilution

If there is a complete subscription of additional ordinary shares allocated to existing shareholders in proportion to their shareholding. It will not cause the price per share to decrease since the offering price is not lower than the market price. Please see Note 1 in Section 2.1.

Decrease in earnings per share ( Earnings Per Share or EPS Dilution )

[ Unable to calculate due to the company's loss ]

Opinion of the board of directors regarding capital increase/allocation of additional shares

When comparing the benefits that shareholders will receive from the capital increase and the allocation of additional common shares of the Company with the impact on profit sharing or voting rights of shareholders or earnings per share as detailed above, the Board is of the view that the capital increase and allocation of additional common shares of the Company will have greater benefits to shareholders than the impact on profit sharing or shareholders' voting rights or earnings per share. The capital increase and allocation of additional common shares of the Company will make the Company receive benefits as specified in item 6 and shareholders will receive benefits as specified in item 7 above. In which shareholders can choose to exercise the right to purchase additional ordinary shares of the Company, according to rights in the case of wanting to maintain shareholding proportion This is because the said capital increase involves the issuance and allocation of additional common shares to existing shareholders in proportion to their shareholding (Rights Offering).

Reasons and necessity of capital increase

The committee is of the opinion that it is necessary to increase the registered capital and allocate additional common shares of the company to existing shareholders in proportion to their shareholding. The Company will use the fund received from such operations for the purposes specified in Section 5 above.

Possibility of plans to use proceeds from the IPO

The Company expects to proceed with the allocation of additional common shares of the Company given to existing shareholders in proportion to their shareholding and will receive fund from the subscription of such additional common shares within the 2nd quarter or 3rd quarter of 2024 , the Company will use the fund received from such operations for the purpose as specified in point 5 above.

Reasonableness of capital increase money spending plan and the projects to be implemented, including the adequacy of funding sources in the event that the proceeds from the allocation of additional shares are insufficient.

The Board is of the opinion that the allocation of additional ordinary shares of the Company given to existing shareholders in proportion to their shareholding It is appropriate, reasonable and in the best interests of the Company and all shareholders because the capital increase will make the Company receive the benefits as specified in Section 6 and shareholders will receive the benefits as specified in Section 7 above . In this regard, the funds received from the subscription of additional ordinary shares in proportion to their shareholding is one of the Company's cash flow management tools. The Company can also source funds from borrowing or increasing capital in various ways in order to have sufficient financial resources to operate the Company's business.

Expected impacts on the Company's business operations as well as financial status and operating results of the company due to capital increase and implementation of spending plans or projects

The Board is of the opinion that the allocation of additional ordinary shares of the Company to existing shareholders in proportion to their shareholding as an action according to the Company's financing plan which will make the fund received from the capital increase can be used for the purposes specified in Section 5 above by taking the steps mentioned above. It will be beneficial to the company and does not have a negative impact on the Company's business operations as well as financial status and operating results of the Company. However, in the event that the capital increase is unsuccessful, the Company will not have funds to use in implementing the plan for using the funds as specified in Section 5 above, and the Company may have to find funds by any other means that may be available. Financial costs are higher than raising capital, such as borrowing money. Issuing and offering debt instruments, etc.
